siderable excitement is said to prevail in connection with the recent sudden death of an old colored woman, who, some of her friends avow, was "conjured" by evil spirits or evil-minded persons.

The old woman was Aunt Laura Berry, an estimable old soul of the old school, a general favorite with blacks and whites. She was a slave in ante-bellum days and still possessed some of that rare flavor of gentility and courtliness, the product of the plantation, but now so hard to find. All'the people in the neighborhood looked upon Aunt Laura na a genuine good-hearted soul, in whom perfect confidence could be reposed.

Last Tuesday Aunt Laura, who weighed nearly 200 pounds, was hanging Last Tuesday Aunt Laura, who weighted nearly 200 pounds, was hanging clothes on the line in her yard. Suddenly, while her hands were still in the air, at work hanging a shirt up, she announced that she had "bruk somethin inside," and called upon one of her children to catch her. She was taken into the house and in a few moments she was dead.

the house and in a few moments she was dead.

At Henrico courthouse Yesterday it was reported that the old woman bled to death, and bled long after she was dead, while still in the coffin, in fact. The funeral was held the next day at St. Jāmes Colored Church. The coffin stood outside in the hearse while the service was being conducted.

The peculiarity attending the death of Aunt Laura led to the statement that she was "conjured," and some of the negroes became terrified. The more infellent among them, of course, hooted the idea, but the others would not be convinced, and they are not yet. The rumors grew so thick and fast that a white resident of Varina Grove thought it wise yesterday to call at the courthouse and put the authorities on their guard. He just wanted to let them know that there was nothing strange about the woman's death, and that there would be no need of an official investigation, which might be instituted if the officers heard first of what the darktes were saying.

BOUND FOR HANDSOME MEMORIAL HALL AT JACOB TOME INSTITUTE

Jacob Tome Institute is the result of the munificence of Jacob Tome, who resided in the little town of Port Deposit, and there acquired the fortune and the reputation as a financier which have made him one of Maryland's most notable men. Mr. Tome, after years of deliberation, decided to found a great educational institute which, unembarassed financially, might afford whatever the highest educational ideals should demand. As a result Tome Institute holds a unique position among secondary schools, for its endowment, which amounts to between three and four million dollars, is the largest sum ever devoted to secondary education.

SCHWAB INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL DEDICATED

(By Associated Press.)

PITTSBURG, PA., May 16.—All business was suspended at Homestead today, and the town folks took a holiday in honor of the dedication of the C. M. Schwab Free Industrial School and the tornal opening of the institution, built and to be maintained by the president of the United States Steel Corporation, who but a few years ago was an employe of the Homestead Steel Works.

Preceding the ceremonies at the school, there was a monster parade. The uniformed troop of Homestead acted as escort to Mr. Schwab, and the young iron master was followed in the line of march by the boys parade of Pennsylvania, thousands of school children. Iron and steel workers from Homestead, Brad-

DEATH ENDS HER CAREER

to Pneumonia. FAVORITE OPERA SINGER

Sybil Sanderson Succumbs

For Some Time She Had Appearsh Only in Plays Given for Cearity, but it Was Her Desire to Return Again to the Stage.

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, May 16.—Sybil Sanderson, the well-known American opera singer, died suddendly to-day of pneumonia, following an attack of the grip.

The announcement of the death of the famous artist caused a profound shock in the American colony, where she was well known throughout musical and theartical circles, She returned to Paris from Nico six weeks ago, suffering from a wight attack of the grip. Her condition was not regarded as serious, but she gradually grew worse and her sickness sinally developed into pneumonia, Miss Sanderson, of California, with whom she lived in apartments at No. 1 Avenue du Bois de Bologne, and other relatives and friends were present at the time of her death, including her sisters Edith sand Marion and Mary Garden, of Chicago, the soprano of the Opera Confique.

Miss Sanderson, according to report, was to have been married this summer to Count Paul Tolstol, a cousin of the Russian novelist.

The funeral of Miss Sanderson will take, place here on Monday. Miss Garden and Miss Banderson, who had been unconsclous since Thursday evening and had suffered great pain, regained her senses before death came, although she passed away quietly in her sleep.

Since her marriage in 1877 to Antonic Terry, the Cuban millionaire, who died in 1899, Miss Sanderson and withfrayan from active participation in opera. Unil her husband's death she spent most other time at his handsome chateau at Chencheceaux and sip had since lived with her mother in spacious apartments here, where she received only a few intimate friends. But Miss Sanderson constantly retained her love of music and the stage and occasionally lent her talents to charitable performances. Her last appearance of this kind was a few months ago at Aix.

Miss Sanderson had confided to near friends her wish to return to the stage and sing in Leon Cavallos "I Pagliacco." She had lived here so long that the Parisians considered her to be one of them. She came to this city as a young girl, from Sacramento, Cal., and entered the Con thre companies and civic societies, in all numbering nearly 20,000 persons.
